

Newcomer Classes

These classes were developed in response to a need for encouraging newcomers in the Kingdom of the Outlands to fully develop their understanding of various aspects of life in the Society.

It was produced through research of multiple classes being held throughout the Society and consultation with experienced members in those fields. Two pilot programs, run by different individuals, were initiated, one in a shire and one in a barony. This training outline is the end product of all the research and testing and modified based on the evaluations.

The order of classes was set to assist the newcomer with an easy transition into the Society. The content of the classes was rudimentary in its information in each field.

It was designed to be taught by an individual in that group most associated with the specific class being taught, i.e., Arts and Sciences Officer for A & S class, Knight Marshal for martial arts, etc.

The determination was made that if there are no appropriate teachers in the group, it can be taught from the handbook or representatives of those areas can be brought in from outside groups.
